Council Is Supported By Marvin

Banned Activities
Reinstated By Student Council

RECEIVING a guarantee from President Cloyd Heck Marvin that he would back them to the utmost in maintaining full authority over all student activities, including those of the professional schools, the Student Council this week released a list of activities still on the suspended list.

These groups, which have not filed a questionnaire requested by the Council several weeks ago, and did not respond even to the suspension ruling as a result of this, include all of the Engineering and Medical organizations.

Deadline for the filing of the long-since overdue petitions is Friday of this week, Bob Howard, activities director of the Student Council, announced. Reinstatement is automatic if the questionnaires are received before this date.

The only large undergraduate group still on the inactive list as far as the Student Council is concerned is the Interfraternity Pledge Council.

The Engineers' Council, which appeared at the meeting of Student Council immediately following the suspension notice, and gave indication at that time of its intention to comply with the Council's request that it file the necessary information, has not been heard from since that date.

The Medical School organizations, on the other hand, which contested from the outset the Student Council's jurisdiction over them, have held the first meeting of their newly organized Medical School Council, and according to Howard, James, president of the group, "The consensus was that we should maintain the status quo with the Student Council, that is, not have any dealings with it."

What action will be taken against this group, and the four social fraternities, will be discussed at the next meeting of the Student Council.

Psychology Department Adds Courses

TWO NEW COURSES will be offered in psychology this semester, Dr. Thelma Hunt, Associate Professor of Psychology, has announced. One course will be in war-time psychology of propaganda and public opinion and the other on training of personnel workers.

The class in "propaganda and public opinion" will consider the questions of how individuals and groups arrive at attitudes concerning public issues and how the public is influenced in various directions. Some attention will also be paid to problems of opinion and attitude measurement, such as the methods and results of public opinion polls. Dr. Theodore M. Newcomb, formerly at the University of Michigan, will be in charge of this course.

Seminar Offered

The University will open a new seminar in personnel administration in connection with its program for training personnel workers in the government. Students in this course will study the organization, structure, and functions of a personnel office in an operating agency. There will be discussions of the operating personnel office in relation to problems of employee placement, counseling and adjustment and employee relations.

Robert C. Sampson, of the United States Budget Bureau, will conduct the seminar for training personnel workers.

Elizabeth Bates, Graduate, Gets Commission in WAVES

CONTINUOUS reports to the Hatchet from former students who have received promotions in the armed forces indicate that women are taking important positions in the services.

Elizabeth C. Bates, daughter of Comdr. and Mrs. John F. Bates, Pittman, N. J., and a graduate of the University's School of Foreign Service, has been commissioned ensign in the WAVES and ordered to active duty. She recently completed courses at the training center in Northampton, Mass.

Among the recent promotions of men who were students here is that of Harry W. Lichterman, who was graduated from the Army Air Forces Statistical School as a second lieutenant. Lieutenant Zichterman was one of a select group chosen for marked ability which

Women's Advisory Council For War Training Formed

FORMATION of a council to advise the women students of the University on all kinds of training for war jobs has been announced by Dean William Johnstone, director of University war activities.

The council, which will maintain a booth in the registration rooms today through Thursday, consists of Alice Newcomer, chairman, Louise McNutt, secretary, Jean Connor, Betty Munson, Charlotte Patterson, and Bileen Shanahan.

Analyzing and compiling information about the demands for women in government, industry, and the uniformed services, the Women's Advisory Council for War Training will be able to help the women students of the University plan their courses of study so that they will be fitted for positions in the war effort.

The council, which will maintain a booth in the registration rooms today through Thursday, consists of Alice Newcomer, chairman, Louise McNutt, secretary, Jean Connor, Betty Munson, Charlotte Patterson, and Bileen Shanahan.

Information regarding points of greatest need for trained women has been obtained from the Civil Service Commission, the U. S. Employment Service, and Office of Education, and other sources. Courses of study within the regular University curriculum, in the Extension Division of the University, and those offered by other institutions have been surveyed and will be recommended.

General belief that the war will last long enough for women to start training, now to fill war positions at the termination of their training, coupled with a crying need for trained women in almost all fields, indicates that the committee will be able to fill a real need, Dean Johnstone stated.

Annual Teachers Exams Will Be Held at University

THE UNIVERSITY has again been selected as an examination center for the March 12-13 teachers' tests of the National Committee on Teacher Examinations, and will cover the general area of Maryland, Virginia, West Virginia, Southern Pennsylvania and the District of Columbia. Dr. Ruth Coyner, head of the local center announced.

These examinations, compiled by means of a grant of the Carnegie Foundation, will be used as a partial basis for teacher selection and promotion. They are designed to measure reasoning, English comprehension, English expression, knowledge of contemporary affairs and knowledge of subject matters to be taught.

University Will Grant War Leave

Men Called
Will Not Suffer
Financial Loss

"WAR LEAVES for the duration will be granted to students who enter the armed forces, according to a recent ruling adopted by the Committee on Educational Policy.

Men who are called into the armed services and men or women students who volunteer for war service may receive leaves of absence by making application to the Dean of their College, School, or Division.

On the day a student applies for war leave, the amount of tuition he has already paid during the semester is "frozen." If a student returns to the University within a "reasonable" time after the end of the war, he will find the tuition he paid for part of a semester still credited to his account, and he may take up payment where he left off.

Academic Status Frozen

The academic status of a student on war leave is also frozen. He will be given automatic "incompletes" in all of his courses so that he may finish the required work upon his return. The rules and regulations in effect at the time his war leave is granted will continue to govern the student when he is able to resume his college work.

Tuition credit cannot be transferred to courses other than those for which the student was registered when he took leave of absence.

Under this plan, a student who faces a call to service in the near future will lose nothing by registering for a new semester. A man drafted four days after registration would still be eligible for a war leave of absence.

This plan was worked out two weeks ago by the Committee on Education Policy—a group headed by President Cloyd H. Marvin and composed of the Deans of the various colleges in the University. President Marvin announced the war leave program in letters recently sent out to individual students. He described it as an effort to give the fullest protection to the completion of student education.

Former Hatchet Sports Editor Umstead Leaves for Army Air Force Training

Bill Held Jobs
At Star and INS

BILL UMSTEAD, whose by-line has run over many a Hatchet story in recent years, left Saturday night for the Army Air Forces ground school at Miami, Fla.

Coming to the University in 1939 from Durham, N.C., Bill lit out for the Hatchet office almost on arrival and stuck around until almost the day of his departure. Even after he was no longer in school, you could find him giving advice on page make-up, his first love and sportswriting, his second, to his successors.

A part-time student all the while he was in school, Bill succeeded in working himself up from the position of copy boy on the Star to wire boy with the International News Service, and finally to reporter with this outfit, which assigned him to cover such important offices as War Department, WPB, OPA and many others.

Bill was a member of Sigma Phi Epsilon fraternity, Pi Delta Ep-

Crime And Classics Asked As Book Campaign Falters

WITH ONLY 82 good books turned into the University Library in the past three weeks, the campus Victory Book Campaign to furnish reading material for men in the Services continues to crawl toward its deadline of March 5.

The University Library was designated as one of the receiving centers for donations of students as well as of the public in the middle of January when the national Victory Book Campaign was opened. Response from University students is as yet far from encouraging.

As the campaign enters the fourth week of its drive for more books for the members of the Army, Navy, and Marines, the committee in charge continues to hope that students will supply popular fiction or non-fiction, mystery stories, adventure, or pocket-size editions of classics.

Cartoons and group games are welcomed, as are up-to-date technical books published since 1935. Thank you, but a tall, husky Coast-guardman doesn't seem to care very much for books about the Bobsey Twins.

Books must be in good condition, not just something you want to get rid of. The publications will be turned over to USO Centers and Army Camp Libraries. In the event of a surplus of books, they will be placed in libraries on defense areas where increased population has taxed local library facilities.

The 1943 Victory Book Campaign was opened by Elmer Davis, director of the Office of War Information, with his contribution of Leo Tolstoy's "War and Peace." He said: "Our men need books... about the ideas for which they are fighting... to help a fellow get ahead... good fiction, good mystery stories, good biography."

New Girls' Dorm Will Open March 1

ANNOUNCEMENT THAT University property at 707 Twenty-second Street, the Maderia Apartments, will be converted into a women's dormitory, open for residents about March first, was made by administration officials last night.

The dormitory, which is to be called Stoughton Hall is expected to house about 120 girls and is at present being converted and furnished.

According to Mrs. Vinnie G. Barrows, director of personnel guidance, most of the occupants of the new dormitory will be part time students who are working for the government.

As yet, a housemother for the new dormitory has not been appointed.

University Law School Loses Few Students

THE UNIVERSITY Law School now has the largest enrollment, as compared with prewar registration, of any law school in the Association of American Law Schools.

More than 375 students were enrolled during the semester just ended. Dean William C. Van Vleck announced that this year the law school will consist of three full 15-week periods. In order to make this possible, registration for the law school was open during the examination period of the semester that has just ended. The remainder will enroll this week. There will be no suspension of classes to register students this term, Dean Van Vleck said.

Fulbright Spoke

James William Fulbright, recently elected a member of the House of Representatives from Arkansas, was guest speaker at a general meeting of the Student Bar Association yesterday. Representative Fulbright was formerly a member of the University faculty. William Kilgore, president of Student Bar Association, presided over the meeting.

Evening classes in law will convene from 6:20 to 8 o'clock. Day sessions will remain the same, between 10 a.m. and 1 p.m. Courses related to public, Federal and war law to be taught this semester include Patent Office practice, administrative law, labor law, Government corporations, international law, taxation, military law and war contracts.

In the Surgery course, registrants will perform operations on animal eyes under the direction of instructors. The Pathology course embraces normal histology of the eye, inflammations and specific diseases. Practical Orthoptics with case demonstrations will comprise the third study. 50-Dollar Prize For Best Essay Offered in Contest

THE YOUTH COMMITTEE for Democracy an organization of progressive young people with offices at 112 East 19th St. New York City, is offering a prize of $50 for the best essay on the subject, "The Peace Aims of Young America."

Persons between the ages of 16 and 25 are eligible to enter. The contest is to encourage the young people of America to think deeply and seriously about the kind of world they want after the war.

The essay should attempt to present America's role in the post war world," according to the committee's announcement, "and should envision the kind of society and international order wanted and obstacles that may prevent the realization of that society and that world order. It should offer definite suggestions and solutions to these problems."

Only Slight Enrollment Drop Seen

No Separate Day
Has Been Set
For Freshmen

REGISTRATION for the second semester of the University's 122nd academic year opened today and will continue through Thursday. Classes in most of the colleges and divisions will begin Friday.

Registrar Fred E. Nessell predicted that some 5,500 students will be enrolled in the University during the coming semester; 6,316 students registered last fall, but enlistments and demands upon the time of employed students continue to contribute to a dropping enrollment.

Classes in the Law School will resume Monday. Registration which opened January 25, will end Thursday. Dean Van Vleck stated that the new policy of an early registration would remove the necessity of suspending classes during enrollment and would give law students three full 15-week periods of study during the calendar year.

The Dean announced that evening classes in law during the winter term will convene from 6:20 to 8 o'clock. Day classes will continue to meet between 11 a.m. and 1 p.m.

A new class in the School of Medicine will not register before February 27 under the accelerated program. The next session will begin March 1 and run through June 19. The current term will end on February 13. Some 300 students are now enrolled in the Medical School.

No special day has been reserved for freshman registration this term. Students may enroll through Thursday from 11 a.m. to 7 p.m. in the Hall of Government.

In Govt. 101, registration blanks and personal information cards will be filled out by students and checked by University officials. Law students will report to Stockton Hall.

In Government 102, advisers and deans may be consulted and programs approved. For students (See REGISTRATION, page 2)

Corliss Heads New Hispanic Major Courses

A NEW MAJOR, Hispanic American Civilization and Culture, will be offered in Columbian College starting this semester, according to acting Dean Christopher B. Garnett, Jr. Work will be instituted that will permit students to receive the Bachelor of Arts and Master of Arts degrees in this field.

James C. Corliss, adjunct professor of Inter-American Economics, was named adviser to students registering for the major in Hispanic American Civilization and Culture. Corliss now teaches courses in Economic History and Problems of Latin America at the University.

Purpose of this major is to give students a thorough knowledge of Hispanic American affairs with special emphasis upon economics, history and literature.

In announcing the new work Dean Garnett said there is a great need at present for persons with a broad knowledge of the culture of the Latin-American nations, as well as specialized training in Latin-American economics and politics. Courses are being instituted in Public and Private Finance in Latin-American Relations, Spanish Conversation and Composition and Brazilian Literature.

Coed Fitness Classes Given Through Extension Division

THE WOMEN'S Physical Education Department has announced a new schedule of evening extension classes, to be offered during the winter term to registered students and also to persons outside the University. The courses, which include physical fitness, square dance, modern dance, and camp leadership, are to last from February 5 to May 15, 1943.

The class in physical fitness will feature conditioning exercises for weight normalizing, general fitness, and relaxation, as well as practical helps in nutrition, health habits, and prevention of such common handicaps as posture and foot defects and colds as they relate to fitness.

Modern Dance Given

Square dance classes are open to both men and women this year. Modern dance, a course in technique for increase of endurance and flexibility of the body and improvement of posture, deals with the traditional dance forms such as the polka, varsonienne, schottische, and waltz.

The camp leadership course, offered annually, will be a workshop on "Camping in Wartime" open to both women and men. Material covered in the ten lectures by specialists will be camping trips, program studies, administration, and personnel problems.

Register Now

Registration for these courses will be held at the regular University registration periods, February 2, 3 and 4, from 1:00 a.m. to 7:00 p.m., or at the first meeting of each class. They are offered under the extension division of the University and carry no academic credit, with the exception of camp leadership, which gives one hour's credit.

Through participation in Orchestras, students learn and appreciate modern dance.

GW Has Variety of Campus Activities

Publications, Drama, Music Are Featured

• INCOMING FRESHMEN and students already well versed in the lore of University life will find many activities to which they can turn for extra-curricular endeavors.

In general, such activities require a 2.0 average in University scholastic standing and registration with the Student Council activities director for participation.

The field of publications offers The Hatchet, University weekly newspaper; The Handbook and the Cherry Tree, a yearbook. Meeting on Sunday afternoons, The Hatchet makes up the paper when both day and night students may participate. Experience is gained in the fields of news, editorials, society and sports. In addition to being the top ranking paper in the Middle Atlantic States intercollegiate competition, the weekly is also a Pacemaker in the Associated Collegiate Press, highest honor that comes to a college paper.

The Handbook, operating for the first time under a system whereby it publishes three or four times throughout the school year, lists University history and future events. The Cherry Tree, annual publication, is issued each May. Positions on all staffs are now open to newcomers.

Cue and Curtain, University dramatic club, produces from three to five major shows each year. Drawing freely from recent Broadway hits, the thespians last year presented "Murder Has Been Arranged," "The Octoroon," and "The Land Is Bright." First production of the present school year was the Kaufman-Hart hit, "The Man Who Came to Dinner."

In recent years, performances of "Margin for Error" and "George Washington Slept Here" marked the first performances by amateur groups. The group also participates occasionally in radio programs, and at one time maintained its own news dramatization broadcast.

Chief among activities programs for athletically-inclined students is the Intramural set-up. Numerous sports contests and tournaments are sponsored throughout the year in cooperation with the University athletic department and the Interfraternity Council.

The Interfraternity Council also maintains its own leagues in the field of football, tennis, basketball and baseball.

The intercollegiate program is covered in the sports section of The Hatchet, with all "at-home" events

Presenting a variety of activities for its members, the International Students Society welcomes all nations, including this country, into its membership. Many races are represented on its membership lists.

free to students showing activities books.

The Student Council has the responsibility of drawing up the budget for student activities, being given a flat sum with which to work; the several activities apply to the council for the necessary expenses; drawing up the calendar of activities for the year, and granting dates to the groups.

Sponsors Food Drive

The council sponsors a food drive annually for charitable distribution in the Christmas season, sponsors the Buff 'n' Blue room.

The Student Council meets weekly, most of its meetings being open to the student body, and receives suggestions, plans and criticism.

Officers of the student-elected group are: Aaron Layne, president; Charlotte Patterson, secretary; Roy Baker, comptroller; Bob Howard, activities director; Martie Diven, freshman director; Virginia Nalls and Sarah Jane Williams, program directors; Fred Kingman, publicity director; Pat Orr, social chairman.

The social scene at the University centers in the fraternity and sorority groups and local dances. Fraternities now active on campus in the Interfraternity Council are: Acacia, Kappa Alpha, Kappa Sigma, Phi Sigma Kappa, Pi Mu, Phi Sigma Sigma, Pi Beta, Sigma Kappa, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

Omega, Colonial Campus Club, Delta Zeta, Kappa Delta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Phi Mu, Phi Sigma Sigma, Pi Beta, Sigma Kappa, and Zeta Tau Alpha.

All Greeks operate under a campus rushing system which is usually opened in the fall and winter terms for prospective members.

Regularly scheduled social events at the University include the Buff 'n' Blue Room dances—a student dry night club held periodically in the Student Club—and several campus-wide dances. The latter includes the Victory Dance, Varsity Dance, and the All-U Prom.

For students successful in the attainment of good records in the academic side of University life, there are numerous awards. Highest of these is selection to Phi Beta Kappa, famous national scholastic honorary, whose membership is limited to 15 per cent of the two upper classes, of near "A" standing and of character and academic inclinations consistent with the organization's high principles and past history.

Honoraries Plentiful

ODK and Mortar Board signify recognition of service and achievement in the University life. Omicron Delta Kappa is a national honorary society for men, and Mortar Board for senior women. Both organizations require leadership, good scholarship, versatile extra-curricular activity, and outstanding citizenship and character in the University life, and are members of the Association of College Honor Societies.

Students must maintain a "reasonable" scholarship in order to remain eligible for the various University activities, and for membership in the several social organizations.

The University Glee Club is among the very best college groups in the nation. Several times it has won the national championship in the annual contest, and annually presents a concert at the Willard which is looked upon by music critics as a high spot of the entertainment year. Last year, the Glee Club appeared with the national symphony and in many other capacities.

Bands Is Active

The band is becoming more active each year; last year the band added an appreciable number to its membership and was considered to have had an excellent year; the band gave a concert at the end of the school year, and appeared with the Glee Club.

In addition, the Symphony Club meets every other Thursday evening to listen to recordings of classical music and couples this with discussions of both music and composer.

In cooperation with the Women's Athletic Department, the Women's Athletic Association joins in presentation of a full coed sports program. Orchestras and Junior Orchestras give a study of modern and classic dance styles.

Professional, Honorary and Social Groups

Other activities at the University include:

Ace of Spades Bridge Club, Chess Club, Debate Council, Interfraternity Council, Interfraternity Pledge Council, International Students Society, Junior Panhellenic Council, Literary Club, Masonic Club, Men's Independents Organizations, Riding Club, Rousers (cheering), Sailing Club, Student Council, Student Congress, Varsity Lettermen's Club, Women's Athletic Association, Women's Fencing Club, Women Students' Government Association.

Eleanor Sherburne Marries Lieutenant Patrick Deming

MRS. PATRICK DEMING

• MISS ELEANOR ESTELLE SHERBURNE became the bride of Lieutenant Patrick M. Deming, United States Army Air Corps, in a recent ceremony at the Takoma Park Presbyterian Church.

Mrs. Deming is a graduate of the University where she was a member of Kappa Gamma sorority. She was also elected to membership in Phi Beta Kappa and Mortar Board, national activities leadership honorary for women. She served as president of the Panhellenic Council in her senior year.

The recent bride was the only University woman to win all of the various "Queen" contests held here. In 1939, she was chosen University Sweetheart. Her other honors included the titles of Beauty Queen and May Queen.

Lieutenant Deming formerly attended the University where he was affiliated with Sigma Chi fraternity. He served as vice-president of the Interfraternity Council here. He is now stationed at Patterson Field in Dayton, Ohio.

Two Former Students Now Army Chaplains

LT. KENNETH CROSBY

• TWO FORMER TEACHING fellows of the University have received their commissions as Chaplains in the U. S. Army, it was announced last week. They are Kenneth W. Crosby and Elton Clark.

Crosby, who was at the University from 1940 to 1942, as a candidate for his doctor's degree in European History, under Dr. Lowell J. Ragatz, is at the present stationed at the Norfolk, Va., Air Field. He passed through Washington last week on his way from the Presque Isle Air Base.

A graduate of the U. S. Army Chaplain's School at Harvard University, last December, Crosby was ordained last fall from Haverford College in the ministry of the Christian Brethren. He also received his M.A. degree from this institution. He expects to be shipped overseas within two months.

Clark, who was a doctoral candidate in the English department under Drs. Tupper and Adams, graduated from the Harvard Chaplain's School in November, and is at present stationed in Seattle, Wash., at the Army Air Field, preparatory to overseas duty. He was an ordained minister before he came to the University, also receiving his degree from Haverford College, and being a member of the Christian Brethren.

Colonials Meet Norfolk on Southern Trip

Buff Quint Plays Two S.C. Foes

Colonials Need Both Loop Wins To Hold Lead

By SEYMOUR FISHBEIN

● GEORGE WASHINGTON'S on-surgings Colonials, victorious in their last six games, take to the road again in their second Dixie Invasion this week. Besides laying their Southern Conference leadership on the line in tilts with North Carolina State and William and Mary, the cagers will again take on the vaunted Norfolk Naval Training five.

The Colonials must cop both Conference games in order to stay on top of the heap. Duke's Blue Devils, with five victories and one defeat, are pressing the Buffmen closely and would take over first place in the event of a Colonial loss.

The three games are scheduled on successive nights with the first taking place Friday night against North Carolina State at Raleigh. Although they have already lost two loop games, the States have a strong squad and have consistently hovered about somewhere near the top of the Conference. The Colonials are slight favorites but cannot look upon this game as a breather.

Norfolk Navy Scheduled

The second game is the result of the University's ambitious schedule-making policy. The Colonials, originally scheduled to engage Wake Forest on this date in a regular Conference game, were forced by the Army, which has taken over the gym facilities of Wake Forest, to re-schedule this as a George Washington home game, at a later date.

The open date was immediately closed when the Naval Training team was scheduled again. So, the high-flying hoopers will again have to face the dynamite-laden, Zunic-led sailors, this time in their own lair. The game will be staged at Norfolk, Saturday night.

The Sailors, since defeating the Colonials in December, have amassed a formidable record and have established themselves as one of the top teams in the country. A Norfolk victory is naturally expected, but a Colonial upset would not be too surprising. Experts agree that the Colonials look better with every game, and many of the boys themselves feel they could down this great Norfolk team.

Buff Cagers Meet W & M

The third stop on the Colonial itinerary will be at Williamsburg, Va., where they will play William and Mary's Indians Sunday night. Blowing alternately hot and cold, the Indians should not be too much trouble. They may, however, catch a winded Colonial team on the rebound from the Norfolk engagement and spring a surprise.

Since the Georgetown loss in December, the Colonials have put an unbeatable quintet on the field. In six tough games, all against top-flight competition, they have shown a keen brand of basketball, erratic at times, but always dangerous. They gave notice of their ability in the first game of the streak, when they overpowered the Blue Devils, 66-53. It was one of the few times that the Colonials engaged in high scoring antics. The victory was a surprise to many since the Dukes were pre-season favorites to win the Southern Conference championship.

The Colonials then took a close game from North Carolina by a score of 34-33. Another surprise occurred when the Buffmen, playing their third service team, took the measure of the Aviation Cadets of the pre-flight school at North Carolina by a score of 47-45. The Pre-Flight boys were typical of the other service teams, stacked with former college luminaries, the brightest being no less than Gus Broberg, who personally carried Dartmouth to two Ivy League championships.

Late Rallies Save Wins

Coming home for a supposed breather against Virginia, the Buff cagers ran into a smooth, well-coached team and narrowly averted defeat. Virginia's neat passing and smart playmaking had the Colonials baffled for most of the game but George Washington's superior shooting finally earned them a 49-43 victory.

The next game saw Edsel Gustafson save the day with five points in the last moments as the Colonials beat the Army 57-48 at West Point. Maryland was the next victim in the quint's streak. The Terps were considered a good match for the Buffmen, but the exciting game that ensued surpassed all expectations of the Terp followers. It was a hard-fought, close-guarding game, and only the terrific backstretch drive provided the Colonials with victory. With Maryland leading 41-32 and 10 minutes to go, the Colonials threw 16 points through the nets while Maryland countered feebly with two foul shots.

THERE'S THAT MAN AGAIN—Matt Zunic is here again to make things hot for his old mates at George Washington. The former brilliant Colonial hoopster will be on deck when his Norfolk squad meets the Colonial five in a return engagement this Saturday night at the Virginia Naval base.

Acacia Meets TDX Cagers For Interfrat Championship

BY AL BRODELL

● ACACIA, winner of League B, will meet Theta Delta Chi, League A champions, for the Interfraternity Basketball title this week. Finalists were decided last week when Theta Delta Chi turned back a late Sigma Nu rally to win by a 19-18 count and Acacia upset a strong Kappa Alpha team, 16-6. Both teams are undefeated in their respective leagues.

Theta Delta Chi was forced to go all out in the final game in order to win from Sigma Nu. James Bacon and John Donahue scored 8 and 5 points, respectively, to stake their team to a 19-10 lead, but Sigma Nu's closing rush, led by Stan Patten and Bob Evans just missed upsetting TDX.

Undefeated Teams Clash

In the League B final both KA and Acacia had undefeated records when they entered the game. Close guarding by Acacia, however, tied up all the KA's except Paul Cain and proved the winning margin. Arnold Flottman and Austin Childress lead the Acacia attack and kept the game under control after the first few minutes.

Because of their high-scoring play against strong opposition, Theta Delta Chi will be favored to win the championship. Acacia's style of play, featuring a smooth working passing attack and close guarding is, however, conceded a chance of scoring an upset.

Coeds Okay Split 'Mural Sports Card

The Women's Intramural Board has announced an organized program for the coming semester. The term will be split into three intramural periods in which different events will be run off.

The first period will be from February 15 to March 15 and will include badminton, ping pong, and basketball. Both singles and doubles events will be staged in badminton and ping pong. Women interested will be able to enter when they register for the coming semester at a desk provided for that purpose in the registration hall.

The second period from March 15 to April 15 will see the deck or paddle tennis tournament get underway. Tennis and swimming will be held during the third period which extends from April 15 to May 15.

In last semester's tournament, Delta Zeta topped all three bowling leagues and Kappa Gamma won the volleyball championship by defeating ADPL.

Basketball, Boxing Planned In Varied 'Murals Program

By ANNE BERRY

● INTRAMURAL ACTIVITIES under the new Intramural Director Art Endres will get into full swing with them beginning of the new semester. Independent Basketball and the All-University Free Throw contest will start during the first week of the semester. Entry blanks are available at the Intramural Sports office for those who wish to enter. These blanks should be obtained and filled out at once.

In addition to the above activities, boxing, wrestling, volleyball, swimming, badminton, bowling, rifle and pistol shooting, and fencing contests are under consideration. Announcements regarding these activities will appear from time to time on Gym and Student Club bulletin boards and in the Hatchet.

Enrico Seeno has been appointed Intramural Supervisor and will be glad to cooperate with students in solving their intramural problems. A further aid to those students interested in intramural activity is the new handbook now being printed. Three hundred copies of this booklet will soon be available for distribution to students.

The colorful "Flower League," featuring the roughest and most rugged basketball ever seen in this area, is again being organized under the Intramural department's direction. Varsity house men are organized into teams to participate in mass murder in the name of basketball. Last year's teams sported such names as the Gardenias, Bleeding Hearts and Goldenrods, but from the court tactics employed Poison Ivy might have been a more descriptive and appropriate designation.

Another Lexington team, fifth-placed Virginia Military Institute, is the other strong squad which the Colonials must face. A home-and-home series, sandwiching the Duke game, is also scheduled to the seventh place. Maryland, to date, are one of the year's disappointments. They have not quite lived up to the early season praises that were heaped upon them, although they are likely to finish higher than their present position.

North Carolina jumped four places this week and brought its Conference average up to .500 by its two wins, going from eleventh to seventh place. Maryland, looming as a strong contender at the beginning of the season has fallen down to tenth place by virtue of three Conference losses. The Terps are not as weak as the standings indicate, having fought the Colonials bitterly before succumbing and having beaten some strong non-Conference teams.

Fraternity Court Playoff Date Set

● Thursday night has been set by the Interfraternity Council as the date for the Interfraternity basketball playoff. Acacia and Theta Delta Chi, leaders of their respective leagues, will tangle for the championship that night at the University gym.

Dick Speaker, activities director of the Council also announced that the Council had decided on the opening dates for two more events in next semester's Interfraternity program. Greek ping pong will start on Sunday, February 14, and Interfraternity bowling will open up on Saturday, February 13.

Player, Coach, Lover Is Versatile Joe Gallagher

By MARY WEBSTER

● CAPTAIN OF THE basketball team, Joe Gallagher is a topnotch guard and general floor man, besides doing his part to boost the score. So far this season he has piled up 86 points, which means he'll probably pass his last year's total of 100 points, before the last game is played in March.

Joe chose George Washington over Fordham, Catholic, and Penn State Universities after starring in both football and basketball while at St. John's. In 1939 he was picked outstanding schoolboy basketball player in Washington. He also played on the Knights of Columbus Boys' Club teams for four years. When he's not playing varsity basketball, Joe spends his spare time out at Sidwell Friends School, where he coaches the Junior football team. He would like to play football for G. W., too, but he doesn't have time. He did play varsity baseball one year.

A Potential Jap-Killer

A senior, Joe has majored in physical education and social sciences. He has been in the Marine Reserves since last March, and although he was given his six month's notice over six months ago, he hopes to be able to finish this year, and graduate in June. After the war he would like to stay in the Marines and specialize in physical instruction or else coach at one of the District high schools. Teaching sociology also holds an appeal for this active little basketballer.

It's not official yet, but an engagement may not be far off between Joe and Trinity's Doris Pettit. Maybe she is partially responsible for his love of dancing. Twenty-one years old, Joe has lived in Washington ever since 1924, when he came here from Philadelphia. That he is popular with students was proved when the senior class elected him their vice-president.

Professor Feted At Birthday Tea

● FORMER PROFESSOR A. F. W. Schmidt was entertained recently at a tea in honor of his seventieth birthday, given by the Library Science Alumni Association of the University. The tea was held at Columbian House, 2029 G Street, Northwest.

Professor Schmidt, formerly head of the Division of Library Science at the University, is now retired. Miss Mary P. Smith of the Geological Survey Library was in charge of arrangements. She was assisted by William Heers, Miss Marguerite Matthews, Miss Martha Schmidt and Miss Virginia Whitney.

Frank Parsons To Direct NRA Rifle Courses

Taking a note from George Washington University's rifle instruction program, the National Rifle Association has announced a city-wide rifle instruction course. Frank Parsons, whose farsightedness was responsible for the University's program, has been asked by the Association to take charge of the program.

The course is of seven weeks' duration and will train about 360 men each session. There are eight ranges available in the city. The University, Georgetown University, Tech, Central, Roosevelt, and Dunbar High schools, and the National Rifle Association have offered the use of their facilities.

The NRA primarily intends the course as a pre-induction course for men entering the services, but entrance is open to all men of all classifications. Its curricula will be fairly intensive, including fundamentals, safety, gun construction, and marksmanship. It is designed to enable the student to instruct himself after completion of the course.

Although registration is still open, there are already 600 men entered, about half of whom will have waited until the second session to begin the course. There are about 50 instructors drawn from all branches of the service and also from George Washington and Georgetown. Hours have been arranged so that a range will be available every weekday night.

Jim Rausch Leads Cagers With 122 Total

● AFTER A comparatively slow beginning, Jim Rausch emerged from the Maryland game as the star individual scorer for the Colonials with a total of 122 points for the season thus far.

The scoring has been evenly distributed this year, with the lead shifting from one player to the other. At the end of the first five games, Gallagher was top scorer with 48 points. Rausch followed with 47 and Konizewski with 42. Gustafson has top scorer in the Southern Conference games, with 32 points. Rausch is second with 30. Edsel Gustafson came from third to second position by scoring 10 points in his last start.

Rausch made the highest score for any one game by piling up 18 points in the game against the Quantico Marines.

On The Other HAND

By AL BRODELL

● PERHAPS the most serious war "casualty" the University has suffered athletically occurred when Reinhart joined the Navy to help Commander Gene Tunney. Bill Reinhart and winning basketball were synonymous terms here at the University and when Bill signed up, the lush years of basketball were thought by many of the experts to be over for at least the duration.

That this is not so does not entirely discredit the reputation of these critics. They simply underestimated the ability of Reinhart's pupil and successor, Arthur "Otto" Zahn. Against Zahn was held his lack of previous "big time" coaching experience, although Zahn-coached Buff frosh team had year after year compiled remarkable records.

To Otto Zahn fell the unenviable task of filling Bill Reinhart's shoes. Reinhart had built up basketball at the University until Buff teams received national ranking, and had compiled a record of 100 victories against only 38 losses in competition against the best local and inter-sectional opponents.

Team Ahead of Last Year's Record

Although Zahn was conceded only a slight chance of equalling Coach Reinhart's record, at this early date he has bettered last year's showing. After 11 games last year's team had already lost four games to such teams as Oklahoma A & M, Duke, Oklahoma University, and Indiana; after 11 games this year's team has lost only three games and two of these were to star-studded service fives from Quantico and Norfolk. Among the eight wins this year are victories over the highly rated Oklahoma Aggies and Duke's Blue Devils.

Even this comparison fails to show the magnitude of Zahn's success. To evaluate his work two additional factors must be taken into consideration. First, the schedule was one of the most difficult ever attempted by a Colonial team. Oklahoma A & M, Norfolk Navy, Quantico Marines, North Carolina Pre-Flight, Duke, and Georgetown were the big hurdles on this program.

Second, the material available for the varsity squad was much weaker this year than last. Last year's "Big Three" of Matt Zunic, Bobby Gilham, and Roy McNeil had graduated. Two players remained from last year's first five, Ed Gustafson and Joe Gallagher, but the rest of the team was inexperienced. At the very start of the season four of the 15 men reporting went the way of all male flesh—into the armed forces. Ryan, Rollings, Sandland, and Matera had been expected to take up some of the slack left by the loss of last year's stars, and their departure was a severe blow.

Team Play Makes Up For Zunic

Faced with these difficulties, Zahn proceeded to develop a starless team which has more than held its own against the strongest competition. Seven or eight players of almost equal ability have alternated to supply the drive necessary to a winning team. Rausch, with his 122 points, is the nearest thing to a star on the team, but Edsel Gustafson, Big John Konizewski, Jim Myers, Joe Gallagher, and Bob Groetzinger have on different occasions gotten hot to put games on ice.

The most striking feature of this year's team is its lack of individual stars. Teamwork is the basis for its success so far. Its offense features fast breaks and fast passing with plays formulated as opportunities present themselves. Its defense is versatile and has stopped both the smooth working set plays of Virginia and the fast breaking play of Oklahoma A & M. This style of play is a hand-me-down from Bill Reinhart and is familiar to all Colonial fans. The principal variation this year is that there is no one star to whom the ball is fed, but every man on the floor represents a constant scoring threat. That this style of play gets the most out of the available material is evidenced by the fine record made by the team this year.

Playoff Spot Seems Assured

Despite the inexperience of this team and the ruggedness of its schedule, it has played its best ball under pressure. Trailing by a sizeable margin in the Oklahoma A & M game, the Buffmen rallied and came back to win. In many of its other games, notably those against Maryland, North Carolina, North Carolina Pre-Flight, and Virginia, last quarter rallies have provided the necessary points for victory. This ability to come from behind is largely responsible for the first place in the Southern Conference held by the Colonials.

In his first year as varsity coach Otto Zahn has carried on the fine work he did with frosh team from 1936 to 1942. He has kept up the high standard for Colonial teams established by Bill Reinhart and continued the Buff tradition of good basketball teams. His squad is virtually assured a place in the Southern Conference play-offs, and may enter the tournament as the favorite, where last year's Reinhart-coached, Zunic-lead team was eliminated in the first round.

Our hats are off to Mr. Zahn for his splendid accomplishment in the face of many difficulties in giving the University a basketball team able to play up to its reputation.

Navy Hospital Will Welcome Blood Donors

● NEAREST Red Cross blood donation center is located at the Naval Hospital, 23rd and Constitution. University officials stated this week, in response to inquiries from the student body.

Appointments should be made in advance by social fraternities and other groups wishing to organize mass donations, he pointed out. Appointments are made by phoning RE 8300, ext. 212, and can be arranged for any week day between 9 a.m. and 6 p.m.

The system is so worked out that the donor gives only a partial transfusion, and is not inconvenienced or endangered by the donation.

It was also stressed that the Civilian Defense emergency blood bank supply lacks 1500 donor-units of reaching its safety quota. Donations for this bank are taken at most of the city hospitals, each of which has different hours and arrangements.

Donations for the Red Cross bank and for the Civilian Defense bank are used for similar purposes—for military services and civilian emergencies when large quantities are needed and direct transfusions are not readily available.

Shoreham Site to Be of All U Prom This Friday

ODK Taps Activities Leaders

Gowns Will Be Either Formal Or Informal

• TRADITIONAL. All University Prom, annual social event on the University calendar will be held Friday night, from 10 to 1 in the new ballroom of the Shoreham Hotel. Wally Hughes and his orchestra will furnish the music.

Feature of the dance will be the tri-annual tapping of new members of Omicron Delta Kappa, national men's leadership honorary. Men are selected for membership on the basis of leadership, character, initiative, citizenship, and versatile contribution to University life.

Because of the ban on pleasure driving, it was decided to leave the matter of formal or informal dress entirely up to the couples attending the dance. It is expected that there will be about half each way.

Billed as a dance for all University students, the annual between-semester prom is generally attended by many who do not ordinarily take part in the social affairs of the University, especially students not affiliated with Greek-letter organizations. Pat Orr, social chairman of the Student Council is in charge of all arrangements.

Aaron Layne, president of the Student Council, and Kathryn Hershey will, according to tradition, lead the Grand March during intermission.

Admission will be $2.20, including tax, or a coop book ticket.

Kappa Skit Wins Prize At Goat Show

• THE ANNUAL JUNIOR Panhell Goat Show held on January 15, in the Student Club, brought three campus sororities into the limelight when Kappa Kappa Gamma took first place, Chi Omega, second, and Kappa Delta third. Nick Lakas was the master of ceremonies for the evening.

Chi Omega received second place with their comedy version of the tragedy of Macbeth.

The skit of the Gay Nineties Revue brought Kappa Delta third place in the goat show.

The judges for the contest were Doctors Ragatz, Young, and Adams. Each sorority presented a ten-minute playlet, most of them featuring brightly colored costumes.

Phi Sigma Sigma presented the modern girl's life in New York City. Alpha Delta Pi sorority presented "All This and Hades, Too," an amusing skit on the order of "Hellzapoppin'."

Sigma Kappa displayed an act from Romeo and Juliet.

Phi Mu's gave a take-off on life at George Washington University.

Delta Zeta brought their version of the modern fairy tale.

Pi Phi's presented a dramatic version of Frankie and Johnnie with songs and action.

Buff 'n' Blue was held immediately following the Goat Show at 10:30 and lasted until 1:00. Music was provided by a Jack Morton unit. During the intermission the fraternities competed with each other in an informal song "shouting" contest.

Weather Training Explained

•METEOROLOGY training programs leading directly to commissions in the Air Corps have been opened to qualified students of the University, according to Dean William Crane Johnstone, Armed Services Representative.

Students who meet the requirements will be sent to one of 29 centers for Army training in meteorology. Successful completion of the training course gives a student a commission of second lieutenant in the Air Corps.

The University offers all physics and mathematics courses listed as necessary to qualify a student for such training, the Dean revealed.

Interviews Scheduled

Mr. Joseph B. McCall, Jr., Consultant with the Army Air Force, will be at the University at 2:30 p.m. Tuesday, February 9, in C-202, to interview students interested in the program.

The meteorology courses are open to civilians, enlisted men in the Army, and students in the Army Enlisted Reserve Corps. Men in the Navy V-1, V-5, and V-7 are not eligible.

Students may qualify for training on the basis of three levels of academic preparation. Those who qualify for Advanced Meteorology will take an eight-month course with the Army and receive commissions. Such students must be between the ages of 18 and 30, and have completed two years of college. Required subjects include differential and integral calculus, and one year of college physics.

Pre-training Course Open

Men from 18 to 30 years of age who have completed one year of college (with one year of college mathematics including college algebra, trigonometry, and analytic geometry) are eligible for the Pre-meteorology Course of six months under Army supervision. After completion of this program, they are allowed to take the eight months Advance Course leading to a commission.

High school graduates (within ages of 18 and 21) who have had algebra, plane geometry, and a year of high school science may apply for the 12-month Basic Meteorology Course. After this, they also may take the eight month Advance Course and receive a commission.

Further information on the programs may be secured from Dean Johnstone in C-102.

Geology Club Views Films At Meeting

•PRESIDENT William H. Ewen announced today that the Geology fraternity held an informal Open House last night to which the pledges were invited. Films and a lecture on National Parks provided the entertainment for the evening.

Vice-President Charles Williamson has been conducting meetings and activities during the absence of Lt. William Ewen (J.G.), who has just returned to Washington. Their present plans are to give up field trips, because of transportation difficulties, in favor of lectures which will be given by experts on strategic materials and their uses in the war program.

Members in Service

Members of the fraternity now serving in the armed forces are Francis Parsons, Air Cadet, Ground Crew and Photography; Cedric Gleason, second lieutenant, U.S.A., who is now in England; Harry Sober, past-president, ensign, U.S.N.R.; George Howard, major, U.S.A., has just returned from England; Gus Krueger, last heard from on some South Pacific island, and two present members, Charles Williamson, vice-president, ensign, U.S.N.R., and William H. Ewen, president, lieutenant (J.G.), U.S.N.R.

War Leaves

This is in accord with suggestions from the War Manpower Commission which has emphasized the importance of continuing higher learning during the war effort. Commenting on the new plan, Dean William C. Johnstone of the Junior College said, "The administration is very pleased to do this for the students because we can feel that it protects their status in the University."

Educators Confer on Physical Fitness for Men and Women

•SOME 150 LOCAL educators and recreation leaders met recently in a two-day conference at the University to exchange opinions and hear authorities on means to improve physical fitness programs in line with the needs of the war.

Five speakers from the services addressing the conference at its opening session concurred in the belief that present physical fitness programs are too "soft".

The responsibility for saving our American fighting men from death by beginning their physical training long before they enter the service was laid squarely on the shoulders of school teachers.

Lt. Col. Theodore Bank, Army director of athletics, and Comdr. Tom Hamilton of the Navy Bureau of Aeronautics stressed the "overloading" principle of getting boys into shape.

"You have to extend the boy further than he is willing to go of his own volition," declared Comdr. Hamilton. The former Annapolis coach said that football is the "closest thing" to war and reeled off names of his former players who are hitting the enemy with submarine, destroyer and airplane.

Comdr. Hamilton's description of swimming as "a cheap life insurance policy" was seconded by another Navy physical director, Lt. Comdr. Charles Forsythe, who quoted a physical fitness director on an aircraft carrier, now sunk, as saying that only the strong swimmers got away from the ship in time.

James E. Pixie of the Army Air Force declared "fatigue is killing more boys than shot and shell. These boys need years of back-ground to get in shape," he said, "not 40 weeks of training."

The officers placed great importance on competitive sports as physical fitness training. Parents were given some of the blame for the present "softness" of young men in that they all too frequently allowed their children to avoid the physical education programs by encouraging doctor's excuses.

The training problems of the WAACS and WAVES were briefly described by First Officer Dorothea Coleman and Lt. Jenny Turnbull.

Miss Coleman said many of the women had to be taught how to "carry, fall and crawl." Lt. Turnbull said the WAVES try to teach their women the ability to relax in "the little free time they have."

In stressing the need of a simpler, more widespread system of recreation for civilian war workers, Harry S. Wender, chairman of the District Recreation Board, attacked "set" curriculum like Greek and Latin.

Miss Louise Stitt of the Women's Bureau addressed the conference on the problem presented in women's fitness training by women entering war work. The greatest need for programs, is among the large numbers of married women now trying to carry both a home and office schedule.

The conference opened on the second day with panel discussions on the new United States Office of Education physical training manual by specialists Jackson Sharnan, Miss Dorothy LaSalle and Ruth Groat.

In the afternoon, Miss Helen B. Lawrence, professor of Women's Physical Education at the University women in a demonstration of

Senior Class Prexy Swett Calls Meeting

•SENIOR CLASS president Tim Swett announced Sunday that first meeting for prospective June graduates will "probably" be held a week from tomorrow.

Originally scheduled for two weeks ago, the meeting was postponed due to nearness of final examinations.

Under present plans, the agenda will include establishment of three committees subject to approval of the Student Council. These are the Class Gift, Social and Publicity Committees.

Establishment of a group to consider the Class Gift this year will mark an innovation in Senior plans.

Senior Play Planned

Swett has also revealed plans for holding a senior play under the auspices of Cue and Curtain, local theatrical group. In addition, the plans call for a dance to be held on the campus, with profits to go toward the Class Gift.

"The meeting will be very informal," Swett has stated, "and class views on its officers' opinions, including the class play, will be sought."

Other officers, elected last December, are Joe Gallagher, vice president, and Mina Brown, secretary.

basketball techniques. Members of the conference also witnessed a demonstration on modern dance by Orchesis and the Junior Dance Group under the direction of Miss Elizabeth Burtner, University professor.

Mrs. Barrows Heads Student Job Directory

•STUDENTS Interested in employment will find that the University has its own employment bureau under the direction of Mrs. Vinnie Barrows, director of Women's Personnel Guidance.

The placement office is maintained to assist graduates and students in finding positions without charge to the applicants.

Berths obtainable at the bureau range from unskilled jobs to trained positions. Needed are women for housework, waitresses, chauffeurs, mail clerks, typists, and stenographers. Some are full-time jobs for part-time students and others are part-time for those students wishing partial support while carrying a full course at the University.

Private concerns and government agencies contact the bureau giving qualifications required for the positions they have open. The bureau then sends qualified students for interviews with the prospective employers.

Interested students may obtain further information from Mrs. Barrows' office at Columbian House.

Of the major organizations still on the suspended list at the time of the publication of the last Hatchet, Cue 'n' Curtain and the Interfraternity Council filed their petitions almost immediately, as did the Student Bar Association. Several minor organizations have also responded to the suspension notice. The Student Council voted in its meeting preceding finals to deny use of the University name or any University funds or facilities to organizations declared suspended.

A similar survey of campus activities has been conducted by the Student Life Committee under the direction of William Myers, and the Student Council has asked that this committee maintain a policy of refusing recognition to those organizations which have not cooperated with the student governing body. It is not certain for what purpose the SLC is making its investigation.
